Dutch port cities as nodes in twentieth-century drug trafficking.

Room: BG.oost.490, TU Delft

Zoom link: <https://eur-nl.zoom.us/j/99485929201>

‘Port cities have a rich history of smuggling and illegal trade. In the twentieth century this evolved into Dutch ports such as Rotterdam, Amsterdam, Terneuzen and others becoming important ports of entry and hubs for the international illegal drug trade. This talk discusses how and why drug smuggling is socially, culturally and economically embedded in the ports, and what this means for future policies.’
